DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of claims 193-199 in the reply filed on 6/10/05 is acknowledged.

However, upon further consideration of the contents of claims 200-205, the Examiner has decided to withdraw the previous restriction (of species) requirement. Consequently, claims 193-205 have been examined on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 193-194, 200-203 and 205 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Turner (US 2004/0119131, dated 6/24/04, filed 6/1/01, provisional dated 5/1/01).

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Turner shows the method as claimed with a sputtering target using Ti and Zr.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

Art Unit: 2812

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
4. Claims 193-205 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lo (US 5,896, 553, dated 4/20/99).

Lo shows the method as claimed in a method of forming sputter targets for barrier (to Al) function. (column 1, lines 10-20).. Although Ti-W targets are exemplified, the method applies to Ti-Ta targets as well (column 3, lines 65-67; column 4, lines 1-6). 99.999 % purity is discussed (column 6, lines 29-42). Note that "about" is usually determined by +/- 10% and the potential is -1.07 for Ta, so that the standard electrode potential for Ta may be considered less than -1.0 V and also not less than -1.0 V, when considering the 10%.

Lo lacks anticipation only in not teaching that the sputtering target is a means for forming a Cu barrier; and that other alloys are added such as Zr.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have had the sputtering target is a means for forming a Cu barrier, in the method of Lo, with the motivation that it is well known to use Ti and Ta as barrier layers for Cu interconnects; and it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have added other alloys such as Zr, in the method of Lo, with the motivation that these alloys would incorporate desirable qualities into the interconnect, such as lowering the resistance in the overall interconnect.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See the PTO Form 892.
